For some of the students who visit this exhibition, this will be their first museum experience. All high school students, however, whether or not they have ever visited an art gallery or musuem, would greatly benefit by such an experience. English and art classes, in particular, might be more interested than all others in visiting this show. These students could be asked, for example, to write short essays on one or more of the photographs on display in this exhibition.

March 11th would be a very good day for four or five groups, of about 35 students each, to visit this exhibition of photographs. I will stop at your office on Friday morning, March 4th, at 10 A.M., to discuss this proposal with you.

Sincerely yours,

S. Robert Powell
